LAST MEETING

Dona Van Arsdale, Chief of the Press Relations Office at the Price Commission, spoke on the Commission's programs and goals. She defined the aim of the Commission as "thawing out the freeze"... slowing down the rate of inflation while keeping a healthy economy and avoiding unemployment. The goal for the end of 1972 is to reduce the rate of inflation to 2.5%.

The Price Commission has relied on a wholesale approach—tackling the major firms with annual revenue of $50 million and up. Some 1,500 firms earning $100 million and up cannot raise any prices without going to the commission. Those between $50 and $100 million must furnish the Commission with quarterly reports on costs, profits and price raises.

John Fanning announced a meeting at the West End Library to discuss the proposed West End redevelopment. Although originally scheduled for June, the meeting has been rescheduled for July—details elsewhere in this issue.

Dennis Williams, co-chairman of the First Annual Foggy Bottom Art Show, reported the show took in 16 new memberships and more than $100 profit.

MEETING RESCHEDULED

The community meeting to discuss the proposed West End redevelopment was postponed from the June date originally scheduled. New time: Thursday, July 6, 7:30 P.M., West End Library. Let's have as many Foggy Bottomians as possible turn out, to let the city government know we care what happens to our neighbors to the north.

Arrividercci, Bon Voyage, Harriet!

Harriet Gruger has spent fifteen of her sixteen years in Washington in Foggy Bottom. Four years ago she retired from her position in HEW and now she plans to return the first part of August to her family circle in Seattle, Washington. Harriet is building a home there south of, but suburban to, Seattle. It will overlook Puget Sound from a front deck besides having a wooded area and city park at its back door. Dreamy!

So there is a For Sale sign in front of her town house at 2530 Eye Street. It is in beautiful condition and as convenient as it is to live in Foggy Bottom it should sell soon.

We reminisced for a while the other day in her living room as painters slup-slapped fresh paint on the outside. She will miss most her friends and neighbors in Foggy Bottom. "They have meant a great deal to me and I'll miss them so much." She also recalled the Chamber Music Concerts at St. Paul's Parish Hall. They rented a harpsichord and adorned it with a violin, a recorder and a flute. Then there was a rousing block party to celebrate the reopening of the 2500 block of Eye Street after months and months of excavating to lay an 8-foot-diameter concrete pipe the length of the block.

Then there were protests and promotions, against high-rise and for new programs, some successes, some misses. All told, thirteen years of active participation on the Foggy Bottom Association Board are solid testimony of the valuable contribution Harriet added to life in Foggy Bottom. Such generous service is seldom equalled and all the Boards, both past and present want you to know it was truly appreciated.

We all wish you great happiness, Harriet, in the "whole new life" you "are looking forward to."

Jane Planck

ANONYMOUS OR NOT, IT HELPS

Foggy Bottom is fortunate in having residents who care about how their community looks. In the April FB News an anonymous owner resident of the 900 block of 25th Street took the writer to task for remarks he had made about the trash in that area. Who can blame him or her for growing angry at other people for littering his or her property? The writer gives off sparks about such things, too.

The next remark may not mollify our anonymous good citizen, but it may help our mutual understanding of the problem. Anonymous said, "Mr. Wilson and others should launch their criticisms toward the city service departments responsible, if they really are concerned." This is a straightforward remark and a reply should be equally so.

We have here two problems. First, streets and second, private property. It is the city's responsibility to keep the streets clean. However, no city can keep its streets clean when people dispose of trash at the rate and in the manner it is done in D.C. I'm not defending the city. I am laying the blame on the litterers. Second, whether the trash on your private property arrived there by your own hand, by another's or by the wind, it is not the city's responsibility to clean it up. It's yours.

If you have habitual litterers, try calling police Sergeant Foreit who makes reports at the F.B.A. meetings and ask him what is the best way to handle the situation so you will know what to do immediately the next time you see it happening or about to happen.

Thank you for your interest in Foggy Bottom. Wish there were even more like you.

Burton T. Wilson

Many thanks to Gastone Miclavio for his letter to the editor in the April Foggy Bottom News. His remarks about the sculptures by Jurgen Weber at the Kennedy Center are perceptive and stimulating. They show a lively interest and careful observation of the two complicated plaques. Are there others who will share their ideas with us?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to urge you to support Big Brothers of the National Capital Area in their current drive to recruit 2,000 new Big Brothers by June 30, 1972.

This is a continuing effort to take some of the fear off our streets. Juvenile delinquency, as you know, most often is the result of a broken home, especially one in which the father is absent. In the Washington area there are more than 50,000 fatherless boys.

Big Brothers receives referrals to help fatherless boys or Little Brothers from juvenile authorities, welfare organizations, youth corrections officials, mothers, and other sources. But Big Brothers does not have nearly enough volunteer Big Brothers.

This is where I feel you and your organization can make another valuable contribution to the National Capital Area. I strongly urge you to:

- (1) Use Big Brothers program as topic of your forthcoming speeches and/or community discussions.
- (2) Contact Big Brothers for posters, brochures, and speakers.
- (3) Advise Big Brothers on how you and your community can actively support Big Brothers' recruitment efforts, in any way.

Your continued support is sincerely appreciated. Call 483-3536.

Soupcon *

by Dorth Arnold

It's summertime and cold soup is a refreshing opener for a buffet supper. This Peanut Soup is an unusual dish and really delightful tasting. To follow this, try the Ring of Grits filled with a meaty spaghetti sauce sans the spaghetti. Bon appetit!

- Cocktails
- Cherry tomatoes dipped in Crazy Salt
- * Cold Peanut Soup
- * Ring of Grits
- Heart of Palm Salad
- Lemon Sherbet
- Coffee

*Cold Peanut Soup

Saute two-thirds cup of chopped celery and 3T. chopped onion in 2T. butter.

Blend 1/4 cup flour and 1 cup of peanut butter. Stir this blend into 4 cups of hot chicken broth until it is smooth. Add 2 cups of milk, 1-1/2 t. salt and a grind of white pepper. Bring to a boil. Remove from the heat and cool, then refrigerate until it is thoroughly chilled.

*Ring of Grits

Gradually stir 1/4 cup quick cooking hominy grits into 4 cups cold water. Add 1 t. salt. Cook, stirring all the time until it is thickened. Pour into well-greased 5-cup ring mold. Cool until it is set. Unmold onto an oven-proof platter about 2 in. deep.

Brush the top of the mold with one beaten egg mixed with 2T. melted butter. Mix grated Parmesan cheese, about one-half cup with an equal amount of fine bread crumbs. Sprinkle this combination over the ring and press around the sides. Bake in a hot oven until it is well heated and bubbly.

While the grits are cooling make the filling for the ring: Saute 1 pound ground round or hamburger in 2 T. oil. Add and saute 2 chopped white onions. Add 1 can sliced mushrooms, one 8-ounce can tomato sauce and 1 clove minced garlic. Season with salt, pepper, thyme and oregano. Simmer while the ring is heating. When all is ready fill the center of grits with the sauce and decorate with cress.

FOGGY BOTTOM FARMER

SPRAY NOW FOR SCALE

Spray now and at weekly intervals for a total of three sprayings for the Wax Scale damaging many Foggy Bottom trees and shrubs.

The insects emerge from the chalk-like scale (drawing below) during the latter part of June. Invisible then, but soon enlarging, they will appear like the tiny cameo shown in the enlarged circle of the sketch.

Spray with Malathion or Diazinon (Spectracide) at two teaspoons per gallon of water completely covering the bark, branches, and twigs. Repeat: three sprayings at weekly intervals are necessary!

July Notes: Day lilies, iris, madonna lilies, and fall-blooming crocus ordered now can be planted as soon as they arrive. Outdoor tubbed and potted plants suffer much from afternoon heat. Mist spray them thoroughly on hot days. Discarded wave-set bottles have a "press-down" plunger that forces out a fine spray just right for wetting foliage.

For late bloom plant "glad" bulbs by July 15th.

FOGGY DOINGS

Lots of new people in the neighborhood since I wrote last. A big welcome to WARD and VIRGINIA WRIGHT, new occupants on Eye Street. They hail from Alabama and other points, and Ward's work involves urban planning. ... And on 25th Street are JOHN MARTANCIK, who hails from New Jersey and is with the American Postal Workers Union; and JOSEPH RENFIELD, from New York City, who is finishing graduate work at GWU.

On New Hampshire near the Elise, the happy new homeowners are RALPH and ESTHER SROUR, who are, we understand, with an auto firm and C&P respectively. They are longtime metropolitan area residents, but have become enthusiastic sightseers of their new neighborhood. ... PETER and CAROLE SEGAL, who purchased the Stuek house on Queen Anne's Lane last fall, are giving it a new look now that spring has come. The new stand of grass was made possible by some backbreaking ivy-pulling. Peter is an attorney in practice, and Carole is with the Center for Political Reform. The young man occupying the apartment in their house is WILLIAM MINSHALL, who is from Ohio and is with the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

Want to report a small battle won: a couple of letters to City Hall resulted in an asphalt curb being installed at the back of the PMI lot at 25th & H. A small victory, but it keeps lots of water from running from the lot, down the bank to make the walk impassable, and destroying the ground cover as it went. ... And that reminds me of the handy shoveler this winter, who religiously shoveled the snow from the long walkway running along the E Street freeway, for the benefit of the many users of the walk.

BRIEF HISTORY OF FOGGY BOTTOM NOW AT LIBRARY

The brief history of Foggy Bottom by Danial W. McDonald mentioned in the March FBNews is now available at West End Library, thanks to Mr. McDonald's kindness in granting permission to make reproductions of his paper, and to Mr. Horrell, the Librarian, for having his staff prepare copies which are available both for reference and for circulation.

Mr. McDonald's paper has created considerable interest and the single copy, available until now, has been read by many Bottomites and has stirred a desire to do further research in some of our residents.

U.S. Energy Crisis:

Light Dims at End of Tunnel

We are really heading for it!

The above headline and the following quotations from the Washington Post of April 14th will urge sensible people to make a change in their way of living.

"The last 40 years have seen the population grow 70% and energy consumption 310%."

"The U.S. now buys 27% of its oil from foreign suppliers."

"By 1985 America's oil and gas supply may well depend on how well we're getting on with countries like Libya, Algeria, Nigeria, Saudi Arabia and the Soviet Union."

Referring to energy supplies in America,

"The analogy I like to use is that it's like a big ice cream soda. We can put a few more straws in the soda and suck it up a little faster, but all that's going to do is make it all gone that much sooner."

S. David Freeman
former White House adviser

* * *

So what do we do? Put more straws in that "big ice cream soda", or yank some out?

If we, as consumers, continue as in the past to demand wasteful consumption of energy, we shall reduce our supplies of fuels to the danger point. Some of our wasteful habits are excessive or needless use of electricity through use of too bright lights, of electric ranges and water heaters; needless waste of fuel by driving a larger car than required, by overheating buildings. Almost everything we do involves an irreversible and often excessive consumption of our fuels—from the aluminum beer can to the jet plane.

Who is going to stop this? You and I. We are the ones who consume. We are the ones who can limit our consuming. The ball is in our court now. BTW

WHERE THERE'S SMOKE THERE MAY BE LAW BREAKING

Beginning last February 7th we are protected against use of incinerators unless they meet city standards (and few do). This is one time we can help clean up our air—if you see an incinerator stack smoking, telephone the Bureau of Air and Water Quality Control, 629-3748, give them the address of the building and give them also your name and address and ask them to tell you what they found during their inspection and what action they have taken.

If you don't hear from them within two weeks, telephone them again. Call them sooner if the incinerator stack continues to smoke. The bureau is really interested in stopping violations. The telephone number again is 629-3748.

REMINDER FROM WHA

During Washington's hot, humid summer days, it is important to avoid over-exertion—particularly if you have a heart condition—the Washington Heart Association warns. The extreme heat intensified by high humidity places added stress on even the healthy heart.

* * *

The summer days are salad days—and a good time to start new eating habits which may reduce the risk of heart disease in your family. The Washington Heart Association says that traditional summer fare featuring fresh fruit and vegetables and lean meats tends to be lower in saturated fats and cholesterol than the meals of other seasons. For more information on the Heart Diet, call 296-4697.
